The Yale Alumni Fund community strives to promote an environment of inclusivity and acceptance where all people feel valued and respected. We are proactively committed to upholding the standards outlined below in all aspects of our daily work and interactions.

The Yale Alumni Fund Community:

- Welcomes feedback from Yale community members to increase our understanding of diversity, equity and inclusion.
- Sees diversity, equity, and inclusion as connected to our daily work and interactions and critical to ensuring the well-being of our staff and the communities we serve.
- Acknowledges and addresses any inequities within our policies, programs, and environment.
- Explores potential underlying, unquestioned assumptions that interfere with inclusiveness.
- Advocates for and supports thinking among senior managers about how systemic inequities impact our institution's work and interactions, and how best to address that in a way that is consistent with Yale's mission.
- Challenges assumptions about what it takes to be a leader and positions itself to provide leadership opportunities across the Yale community.
- Practices and encourages timely, intentional and transparent communications that address diversity, equity and inclusion.
- Commits time and resources to expand diverse representation within our volunteer, donor and staff communities.
- Leads with respect and tolerance. Expects all staff, volunteers and donors to treat people with respect and tolerance.

This is a living statement. The leadership of the Alumni Fund will periodically re-evaluate the resources and methods by which we promote a culture of diversity, equity and inclusion and honor the commitment to grow in this area.
